

Chief submits article seeking increased powers

A warrant article for the annual town meeting, submitted by Police Chief Bobby Stewart, seeks to have the town adopt a law which would give the chief increased powers.

The matter stems from a controversy over the appointment of detectives. Last year, the chief sued the town manager, after the town manager appointed two men as detectives. The town manager won the court case, with Judge Cashman of the Middlesex Superior Court ruling that Wilmington's Town Manager Act gave the manager the power to appoint. With the town operating under Chapter 41, Section 96, the chief does not have the power to make appointments. Therefore, he is seeking to have the town adopt Section 97A instead.

Stewart submitted his warrant article on February 15. Often, department heads are allowed to submit articles, without petition, which are then placed on the warrant by the selectmen. In 1973, then Chief Paul Lynch placed an identical article on the warrant in this manner.

Chief Stewart, though, received a memo back from Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski, asking that he submit the article by petition. He also asked that Stewart appear before the selectmen to discuss the article.

On Monday night Stewart, accompanied by Attorney Thomas Troy, met with the selectmen. The meeting was tense, with little if any agreement.

Stapeczynski said he did not know how the adopting of Section 97A would relate with the Town Manager Act. He said that it raised more questions than it answered.

"That's just because you don't want it to come into fruition," said Troy. He said the town manager was a professional in government, but that he "didn't know tiddlywinks about running a police department."

Troy said that other towns with town managers operate under 97A.

Selectman Rocco DePasquale asked why they couldn't continue working under the present police chief's law, simply adopting new rules and regulations giving Stewart broader authority.

"The selectmen have the power to amend the regulations," said Stewart. "They could take out a word today and bring it back tomorrow. I would like to take that element out."

The matter originated when Prop. 2½ required the chief to make budget cuts. At that time, he eliminated all specialists, putting detectives back in uniform. This made them available for working regular shifts, greatly reducing overtime in the department.

As the budget became more flexible, Stewart reappointed the specialists. Among the detectives he appointed, though, were Mark Jepson and Michael Celata, neither of whom had been detectives prior to the cutbacks.

The issue simmered until August, when the town manager reappointed two former detectives, Daniel Ballou, Sr. and John Ritchie. It was at that point that Stewart sued the town manager and the selectmen.

At the time Judge Cashman issued his decision, Ritchie was serving as an active sergeant, and Ballou was still out on an extended sick leave. Therefore, Stewart kept Celata and Jepson working as detectives.

Ritchie, no longer serving as acting sergeant, has been assigned as a detective. Ballou is still out. Stewart, though, has yet to reassign Celata and Jepson, saying that they are working on ongoing special investigations.

Bicyclist injured

A 12-year-old Wilmington girl remains hospitalized at Winchester Hospital with a broken pelvis and broken ankle, following a bicycle accident on Saturday afternoon.

Amy Palman of 6 Maple Rd. was riding her bicycle on Salem Street near Cunningham Street shortly before 5 p.m. She was attempting to cross the street when she collided with a car driven by Steve DePrez, 22, of 314 Salem St., Wilmington.

Amy was taken to the Regional Health Center in the fire department ambulance, then transferred to Winchester in a private ambulance.

DePrez was issued a ticket by Officer William Gable, charging him with operating at a speed greater than reasonable, and endangering.

Census forms due

About 1000 census forms have not been returned to the town hall, according to Town Clerk Patty Lynch. The annual town census is used to verify names on the list of registered voters. Any householder in Wilmington who has not returned a form should do so immediately.

Accreditation received, but high school still deficient

Misleading information has been circulated this week regarding accreditation of Wilmington High School. A statement was made in a public meeting that five-year accreditation had been received.

To set the record straight, the school has received its annual certificate of accreditation from the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Accreditation is an on-going process, and is not granted for a block of time such as five years. In its last two-year report, submitted early last fall, the association noted that the building was deficient but that town was to vote on renovations.

The renovations to the school were approved in a special town meeting in October, but were then defeated in a referendum in November. The Permanent Building Committee is preparing a referendum for the annual town election, and an article for the annual town meeting, on a revised renovation proposal. The proposal would be similar to last year's, except that the gymnasium is not oversized, and new bleachers are not included. An association vote will be taken in March on accreditation status for the school.

'Hammerhead' lots proposed for Lake Street

A board of appeals hearing on February 28 in Wilmington for some proposed houselots off Lake Street drew the attention of many neighbors. Alfred V. Fraumeni of Lynnfield has purchased land which is between the Redler home and the old Middlesex Canal.

He is proposing two "hammerhead" lots and three lots along Lake Street. The zoning bylaw allows hammerhead lots, off the streets, with 40 foot driveways. The size lots depend on the type of residential zoning for the area.

Objections were voiced by Mrs. Redler over the use of the field, which many years ago was a garden. She told the board of appeals that it was a place with a lot of water.

Two of the houselots proposed along the street, when examined by the planning board later, turned out to have more than the needed frontage. The engineer had used a circle with a 125 foot diameter, such as is needed for the hammerhead lots, to determine the width.

Close inspection revealed that the intersections were not perfect circles, and hence were probably invalid - except that, for the area, the circles need have only 100 feet diameters.

The board of appeals will take up consideration of the proposal on March 27.

CLOCK TOCK
by THE CLOCKFOLK OF NEW ENGLAND
Wilmington
Seth Thomas died in 1859, having created a clock business in his name since 1813. By this time about 40,000 clocks, now all with brass works, were being produced annually. By 1862, the Seth Thomas Clock Co. incorporated mechanical clock mechanisms which were operated by the clockworks. Calendar clocks proved to be popular for over the next 50 years. Some had an extra hand pointing to the date of the month while others were more elaborate, being shaped in a figure "8" with the time at the top face, and the month, date and day of the week indicated at the bottom face. Most even accounted for 30 day months and leap year!
In 1865, the town of Plymouth Hollow, Connecticut became Thomaston, in honor of Seth Thomas. About this time the company began making tower clocks as we see in church steeples. One made by Seth Thomas Clock Co. is in the church in Reading Square. Over 133,000 clocks of all types were annually made by 1870. Many had a fancy hand design of an "S" and a "T" making the hour and minute hands, but unless closely analyzed, the company's initials would go unnoticed. Jeweled pocket watches of various qualities were made from 1884 until 1915, and in 1927, the production of electric clocks was started.
Next: Continued... and their move to Georgia.

Police advised the manager of the Tewksbury Inn to clear all non-employees from the liquor serving restaurant at 1:54 a.m. on February 25. According to reports, Sgt. Dennis Peterson, while on routine patrol, reported seeing several cars still in the Tewksbury Inn's parking lot. Police called the establishment by phone, spoke to the manager and advised him to have all non-employees leave the building as it was after hours. The manager agreed to that action. Police log entries gave no indication whether liquor was being served at the time the call was made.

Tewksbury nomination period closes

The nomination period of the April 7 Tewksbury town elections has closed and many of the candidates will be running unopposed.

Two term Selectman Charlie Coldwell faces no challenge in his bid for a third three year term.

Long time Board of Health Chairperson Joan Dunlevy also faces no challenge for re-election to another three year term.

However, three candidates will vie to serve out the final year of Brian Sheehan's term on the health board. Sheehan had to give up his term when he was elected to a selectmen's seat last year. John T. Lu of North Street, who was appointed by selectmen and remaining health board members to serve until the next election, seeks to keep the seat and will face challenges from Paul R. Doherty of Doherty Way and Paul O'Neill of Oliver Street.

School Committee Chairman Tom Cooke, who was unopposed in gaining his first three year term in the 1981 election, will face a challenge from David F. Harrington of Wilson Road.

Housing Authority member Louise Flucker Gearty, who was appointed to fill her father Robert's position upon his death last year, faces a challenge from Faun M. Marino of 1125 Whipple Road for a five year term on the board.

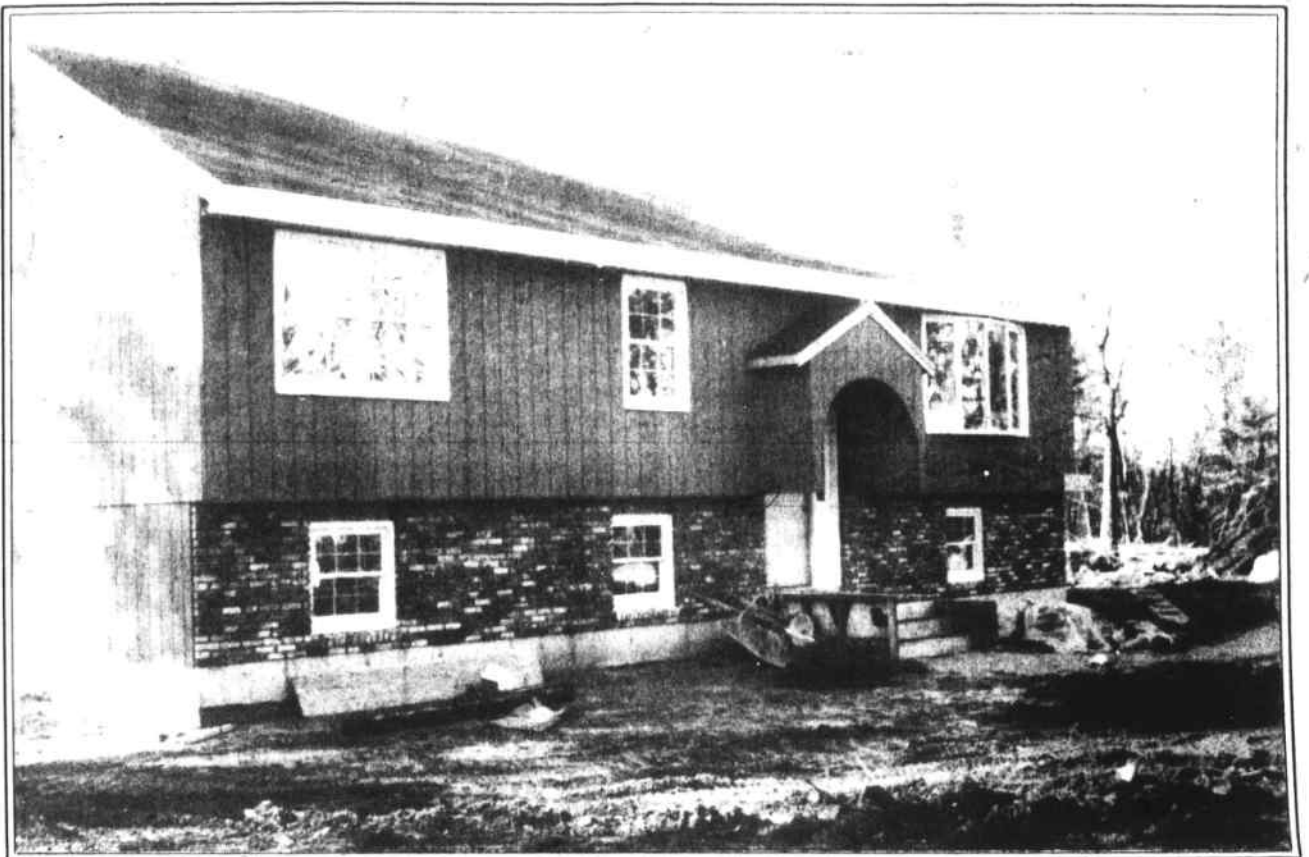

There will be three candidates seeking to fill two three year terms on the library board of trustees: Mildred M. Mulno of Astle Street, Judith Ann Segur of Brookfield Road and Julie S. Trull of Tomahawk Drive Extension will each vie for one of the two library trustees seats up for election this year.

Charles Gaffney of East Street will seek another three year term as trust fund commissioner, but will face a challenge from Joanne Callahan of So. Rhoda Street.

Assessor Barbara Flanagan will face a challenge from Selectman Brian Sheehan's father, Edward of Lee Street for a three year term on the board.

Also running unopposed this year will be Town Meeting Moderator Bill Hurton, who seeks another one year term; Town Clerk Elizabeth Carey, seeking another three year term; Treasurer-Collector Lewis Tremblay, seeking another three year term; Planning Board member Wildred Lambert, seeking another five year term; and Shawsheen Vocational School Committeeman Peter Downing. Downing was appointed to fill Wilson Brazile's seat on that board when Brazile retired last year.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

In regard to the article about the Freedom from Chemical Dependency (FDC) foundation, Inc., which speaks to public school children on alcohol and drug awareness.

This is a growing problem of society and needs to be addressed openly and honestly which I am sure that this group is doing very well.

Whoever wrote this article however, does a disservice to the cause by using the word "reformed" both in the caption and the text. The word "reformed" denotes guilt, evil, crime, "sin" all definitions that reflect an archaic, fundamentalist uninformed attitude toward the problem.

by Dr. Carol Sager

Educational Update

In a recent interview with U.S. News and World Report, Attorney General William French Smith identified drugs as the number one crime problem in the U.S.

Drug/Alcohol abuse is so prevalent that it presents a serious and on-going concern for school systems across the nation. The Wilmington School system is no exception.

In January the Wilmington Police Department, under the direction of officers Shelley and Spencer, the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, and the Wilmington Public Schools, sponsored a Drug Awareness Day. Mr. Robert M. Stutman, director of the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration in the New England area, spoke to students, teachers and parents. He then provided feedback for administrators regarding the effectiveness of our existing policies, procedures and practices for combatting drug abuse. At a later date he shared his findings with the members of the School Committee at a public meeting. As a result of these meetings I recommended that the School Committee establish a town-wide task force to review and update their current policy on Drug/Alcohol abuse.

What is needed is a policy which clearly states, in a manner that leaves no doubt in the minds of students, parents, or citizens of the community, that the use, possession, or distribution of drugs will not be tolerated in school, on school property, or at school sponsored activities. Our goal must be a drug-free school environment.

Students have the right to receive an education in a safe environment conducive to learning. No student should be allowed to interfere with this right or endanger the health and well-being of other students. Parents have rights too. They should expect that their children will attend school without having to see the open use, possession, or sale of drugs.

The members of the policy task force are as follows: Dr. Joseph Connelly, principal, North Intermediate School; Mr. Richard DeRosa, acting principal, Wilmington High School; Mr. Matthew Joyce, president, W.T.A.; Mrs. Elaine Levine, counselor; Mr. Bruce Peters, co-chairman of the Chemical People; Mr. Robert Peterson, chairman, Wilmington School Committee; Police Chief Bobby Stewart; Mrs. Lorna Stockbridge, High School PAC. In addition, Mr. Stutman, who is well known across the country for his efforts in establishing drug prevention programs in school systems and towns, has agreed to act as our consultant. In four to six weeks the task force plans to present a recommended Drug/Substance Abuse Policy to the School Committee.

Establishing an effective policy is only one step in insuring a drug free school environment. In the next few months we will also:

- Examine our health curriculum and informational programs K-12 as substance abuse is not confined just to the high school age child.
- Provide workshops for teachers to increase their awareness and help them recognize the symptoms of persons under the influence of specific drugs.
- Look at student services to be sure that assistance is available for those students who voluntarily seek drug treatment or advice.
- Examine ways to provide students with more challenging curriculum, more opportunities for service to the entire community, a stronger role in student government, and more varied after school activities.

With substance abuse problems information alone is not enough. We must also help young people develop constructive outlets for their energies and effective ways for them to fill up their time.

The school system recognizes its responsibility to do whatever it can to combat drug/alcohol abuse; but schools cannot solve this problem alone. All segments of the Wilmington community must be willing to work cooperatively to reduce and prevent substance abuse if we are to make significant gains.

If you have any concerns about Drug/Alcohol Abuse or questions to ask, please feel free to call me at my office (658-2052).

Alcohol and drugs are one and the same, in fact alcohol is really our biggest drug problem. Most of our population and our government refuse to admit this fact or to really attempt to deal with it as alcohol is a giant industry and is therefore socially acceptable. This is the context where the implications of the word "reform" should apply.

Alcohol affects all walks of life from kings to peasants, and from preachers to "sinners." Those who escape from its control are not "reformed" they are informed and recovered just as victims of any other sickness are.

The use of the word "reformed" is wrong in light of current knowledge and gives a negative connotation to the persons and the problem.

Sincerely,
George L. Webster

Dear Larz:

I am writing this letter because there isn't a day that goes by when my daughter or my neighbors' children get on the school bus that I don't worry that they will all reach school safely. I feel our school buses should have seat belts on them. We have laws for children under five to be restrained at all times in a vehicle, well what about our older children?? Don't they count after the reach the age of five??

What will it take to make it mandatory for all school buses to have seatbelts??? Will it be when a major accident happens in our town??? It can, and yes we have been very fortunate that so far our children have made it back and forth to school with no major accidents. Our children go to school in the winter when the roads are icy, wet and covered with snow. Most accidents happen in bad road conditions. I have highest regard for the bus drivers, and I know that they would love to have kids in seatbelts and not able to switch seats or stand on the buses.

I know that our junior high children go in and out of Boston on their field trips, and I don't have to tell anybody what it's like to drive in Boston, but sometimes there are three kids to one seat on these field trips. Please, what will it take, a major accident where one of our children is killed or disabled? No, let's do everything we can to protect our children from danger on the buses.

The only thing I've heard against them is the cost that it will be to install them. Well, I'm a taxpayer of Wilmington and that is surely one of the things that I would be more than happy to have my tax dollars spent for. Please, let's not wait until a major bus accident happens. Speak out for our children's sake!!! Our children's lives are worth every penny spent to protect them.

Dear Larz:

Every once in a while the Man-of-the-Year is mentioned in a local paper, but I cannot seem to remember - at least in Wilmington - any Woman-of-the-Year.

When TIME magazine selected its man of the year for the cover of the magazine, it mentioned choosing one who'd had his picture in the papers most times.

On that basis, would it not be appropriate to not only initiate a less-chauvinistic stance in our town and at the same time start the nominations with the face seen most in the Town Crier in 1983, not to mention other times, i.e., Nicki Johnson, who brought the Chamber of Commerce alive, even while being manager of the Commercial Bank, and active in civic affairs? (as well as raising eight children).

Second on the list of nominations is the most usual persona in this town, a mother of nine; a teacher, a very civic-active person, involved in church and cultural activities, i.e., Annette Campbell.

I make a point of the number of children because you take all that involves for granted, yet here it means not only nurse, teacher, mentor, cook, buyer, etc., but also constant chauffeuring, middle-of-the-night to hockey practice, for instance, here for music lessons, there for football practice or games, somewhere else for drama lessons, dancing lessons, school play rehearsals, even home for weekends from college - you name it, they've driven there, and back, for years! And kept their figures! And their smiles! Let's show some appreciation when they go beyond those demands and achieve even more as individuals in enterprises, politics, arts, or whatever.

Terri Putnam

The name of Wilmington's only such award has always been the Good Guy. That was a deliberate choice, non-chauvinistic in nature.

Only politicians running for office or in office are barred from nomination. Rocco DePasquale was given the award long before he became a political person, for instance. The naming of the Good Guy of the year is a task for past Good Guys. Each year they put a notice in the Town Crier asking the public at large to nominate candidates.

The award is based on service to the people of Wilmington.

More than just a few persons have been females, and have become Good Guys. Lil Woodside was the gal who started the movement that resulted in the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. A memorial to her is at the entrance to that center.

Marion Boylen, for many years active in public health and the Wilmington Community Fund was a Good Guy. So was Jo O'Neil, who worked for years for the blood committee and the Health Center. Another Good Guy was Jean Muisse, active in Little League.

Without trying to detract from any honors for Nicki Johnson she is one of a dozen or more persons who have been working for years to have a good Chamber of Commerce. Other women have been just as active as have been many men. The directors of that organization are all dedicated persons, Nicki is one of them.

Any reader can submit names, which should be mailed to: Box 387, Wilmington. Deadline for nominations this year is April 2. The dinner will be held on May 11.

Subaru dealer seeks sign variance

Signs for auto dealers selling Subaru cars are supposed to be the same, the country over, the Wilmington Board of Appeals was told on February 27. The signs are to be free standing, with a center pole, and the name of the car on individual parts of the sign, in a vertical manner. Wilmington bylaws allow signs not over 15 feet high, and not over 50 square feet in area. The proposal before the board of appeals was for a sign 32 feet high and with 196 square feet.

The appeal was presented by Joseph Sederquist, agent. He expressed no hardships in connection with the case.

The board of appeals took the case under advisement, meaning that a decision will be made later.

A second industrial case was that of Analog of Woburn Street. That company wants parking areas for nine cars close to the street, but on company property. It would be reserved, the appeals board was told, for visitors, and would be in the area called "setback" which is 20 feet deep from the street.

Planning board member Bill Hooper told the board that there should be no parking allowed under any circumstances on Woburn Street. If the board saw fit to grant the appeal there should also be a requirement that there be a sign directing drivers of "overflow" cars to park in back of the building.

Polyvinyl, on Main Street near the town farm bridge, wishes to add a 7200 square foot warehouse in the rear of their property. The case was heard on February 27. There would be, the appeals board was told, an additional 16 employees.

Ralph Medbury, owner of an Ralph's Auto Parts, south of Wilmington Square has a proposal to tear down the bld garage which has been on the property for about 70 years. Mr. Medbury wants to increase his store area and to improve the parking area.

Van pooling eyed for traffic relief

Several Wilmington firms favor van pooling as a means of reducing traffic problems. Others see the opening of the New Boston Street bridge as an outlet for traffic in the Woburn Street area. These ideas were among several brought out at a meeting on traffic and parking problems, held last Thursday at the Wilmington Memorial Library, sponsored by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

"If we're talking construction, we're talking years down the road," said Police Chief Bobby Stewart. "We've got to try to absorb some of this traffic flow now."

Jean Amato, representing Caravan for Commuters, Inc., presented information on how companies could attract employees to van pools. Among the incentives offered by many firms are preferred parking spaces and a guarantee of no required overtime, she said.

Greg Alevras of Avco, who chaired the meeting, presented a map of three areas of heavy traffic in Wilmington. Based on employee counts of firms in the Chamber of Commerce, the map showed the heavy traffic areas of Lowell Street and Wilmington Center, Concord Street, and Ballardvale Street. Statistics presented by Alevras showed there to be nearly 18,000 persons working in Wilmington, which would make the employee count equal to the resident population.

As for the possibility of opening the New Boston Street bridge, Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski said that the town had been attempting to delay the opening of the bridge, and had been at least able to tie that opening to the opening of a four-way cloverleaf at Routes 93 and 129. Representatives from firms on lower Woburn Street, however, said that they felt that opening the bridge would allow traffic headed for Route 128 to head south, which might make up for the influx of Woburn traffic heading for Route 93.

Town warns lodges on liquor

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen have instructed the town manager to write to lodges in Wilmington, informing them of the town laws regulating the sale of liquor and the use of a hall. The letters were prompted by an incident on February 19 at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The hall had been rented for a concert in the name of a lady from Grove Avenue. It turns out that her son plays in a rock band. That band and another band had arranged the concert and sold tickets.

Chief of Police Bobby Stewart was informed of the situation about 10 p.m. When he arrived at the hall, there were about 400 youths present, including many from Tewksbury. Stewart said that probably half of the persons present were not of legal drinking age.

He talked to Frank Sferrazza, who manages the hall. He said he had been told there would be about 85 people present. Stewart then talked to the young man in charge of the band, instructing him to start quietly telling people that the bar was closed and the concert was over.

The crowd was dispersed without incident.

Stewart notified the town manager, and requested that the K of C be notified that it was a violation of the law to hold a concert of this type. He also wants to have a tighter control on the age of persons who obtain liquor in the hall. Although the bartenders were checking identification of the people buying, they were buying multiple orders, and taking them to tables with minors. Also, in order to serve liquor in the function hall, the facility must serve food.

No criminal charges are being sought in the matter.

Tewksbury teacher surrenders to police, faces rape charges

Tewksbury Memorial High School science teacher James W. Lenox surrendered to police last Friday morning and was arrested on several sex related charges.

The arrest stems from an ongoing investigation that involved Tewksbury Police, the District Attorney's Office and the Department of Social Services, according to Inspector Clifford Bolton who made the arrest.

The 44-year-old Lenox, a resident of 275 Marshall Street and a Tewksbury teacher for about 20 years, turned himself in on Friday, February 24 at 8:20 a.m. on advice of counsel, Bolton said. Bolton had secured several warrants for his arrest from Lowell District Court that morning.

The warrants charge Lenox with three counts of indecent assault and battery on a person who has attained the age of 14, one count of rape of a child under 16 and another sex related charge.

Bolton said he got involved in the case at the request of the DA's office and that he sought the warrants after interviewing the alleged victim.

Reports indicate that the alleged incident did not involve a school student.

The school committee has taken no action against Lenox as of press deadline, but it is likely that the board will discuss the matter when they convene next.

However, reports indicate that Lenox has not reported for work since the arrest and is currently free on bail.

Tewksbury appeals board awaiting more information on auto repair shop case

Milton Bernbaum, owner of property at 614 Woburn St., Tewksbury, faced opposition during a February 27 board of appeals hearing on his request for a special permit to repair and store cars on the site.

The property is next to the Billerica line and has 105 feet of street frontage in Tewksbury. The zoning bylaws require a total of 150 feet of street frontage.

Some years ago, a previous owner was granted a special permit, but used it instead for a construction company, Bernbaum told the board. He bought the place in November 1983, and seeks to have a repair garage and body shop, where he can fix up cars he buys. He is planning a six to ten car operation and expects to be open six days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., he said.

Total plans apparently call for fixing old cars and then selling them on the site. That sale operation can only be allowed under a class II motor vehicle sales license issued by selectmen. However, acquiring the special permit to allow repairs and storage on site appears to be a required first step in this case.

However, several residents of the area spoke in opposition to the plan.

Robert Rowe of 375 North Billerica Road charged that the property was a junk yard while Percy Roberts of North Billerica Road told the board there must be thirty or forty junk cars at the site.

Robert Bernier of 612 Woburn Street told the appeals board he has a swimming pool less than 100 feet away, which he feels should not be subjected to the proposed operation.

Another neighbor said that there is a Tenneco gas line in the neighborhood which must be considered.

Appeals Board Chairman Louis Carciofi furnished board members with the recorded minutes of the appeal board's previous case on the property.

The decision is being held in abeyance, pending further information.

Appeals board grants variance for changes to fruit stand site

John's Fruit Stand, on Main Street in South Tewksbury, is about to be replaced by another building.

The proposed 7200 square foot new building, according to testimony at a February 27 Board of Appeals hearing, will be further away from Main Street and capable of having three stores within it.

After hearing a request for a variance from parking area requirements, the board voted in favor of the proposal.

The property is owned by Rocco J. Migliozi, Jr., of Lancaster Drive, who was represented at the meeting by local Attorney Jay Gaffney. Gaffney told the appeals board that a home currently on the property will be moved or demolished and that the existing fruit stand building will be demolished.

There will be better traffic control as a result of those improvements to the lot, Gaffney argued.

In other action, the board also granted a variance for Donald and Catherine Champoli of 807 Main Street, who were also represented by Gaffney.

The variance will allow the couple to sell their home. It had been discovered, during the sales proceedings, that the front porch had been extended into the side yard area, creating an apparent zoning violation. According to zoning bylaws, there has to be at least 10 feet of side yard area.

Sales of homes where there are apparent zoning violations are usually held up, but a variance from the board essentially means that the town is allowing the apparent violation to occur.

According to testimony during the hearing, a building permit to allow the porch extension had been granted.

Eastern Mass. tourney preview

Wildcats, Redmen, Rams up for tough tourney road

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

Three local hockey squads and a hoop contingent begin competition this week in what should be a tough, but very exciting Eastern Mass. Tournament road.

The Wilmington and Tewksbury hockey teams head into the Division II tourney after finishing one-two in the Small School Division of the Merrimack Valley Hockey League. Both teams made it all the way to semifinal games a year ago and would have faced each other for the Division II crown had they won. Wilmington lost to the eventual champion Franklin, a winner over Falmouth in the title tilt.

Shawsheen Tech opens play this week in Division III. The Rams are without doubt one of the best teams in the state. Finally, there is yet another powerhouse team set to tap off in Division III—the Shawsheen Tech basketball Rams.

And as if all this area tournament talent weren't enough, two young men from Wilmington, Jim Newhouse (14-23-37) and Paul Brady, will be looking for a tourney title with a powerful Matignon hockey team.

Now, a look at the local teams and their opponents, along with the sites and times of the respective contests.

Wilmington Wildcats hockey (14-3-2 overall)

Coach Bill Cullen's physical team opens play tonight (Feb. 29) with a 6 p.m. Tully Forum game against Dual County League runnerup Concord-Carlisle (11-4-0).

The Wildcats came within one goal a year ago of a title game appearance, dropping that heartbreaking 5-4 decision to Franklin at Boston University. This season the Cats roared off to a 10-0-2 start before losses to Chelmsford and Billerica coupled with a flu bug set the team back a bit. The last setback was to a 2-1 defeat at the hands of Central Catholic.

Helping Wilmington to its second straight Small School title was the play of Dennis Moran (23-28-51, 100 career points), Dean Athanasia (16-19-35), Brian Tully (15-14-29) and rugged defenseman Kevin Cullivan (2-16-18).

Wilmington also received solid seasons from goalies Donald Gunn (senior) and Billy Wolfe (junior).

Wilmington will also be counting on more balanced production from the lines composed of Scott Robbins, Dave Richards and Brian Robbins, along with Tom Craig, Steve Raso and Bill Woods.

The WHS defense of Cullivan, Dave Fuller, Steve Caizzi and Dante DeMarco will also be a factor. Jay Barrett will also be looking to contribute on a WHS line.

Concord-Carlisle lacks real depth, but does boast some quality players in John Hutchinson (19-16-35), Dave Witherell (22-24-26) and goaltender Gary Stephenson (four shutouts).

When it comes to common opponents, C-C tied Lowell, 3-3 while the Wildcats bounced the big city boys, 6-0 in MVHL action.

The winner of this game will advance to the quarterfinals next Tuesday night (March 6) at Merrimack College against the winner of the Hanover (16-1-1) vs. Lynnfield (14-5-0) contest.

Tewksbury Redmen hockey (12-5-2 overall)

The Redmen open tourney play with tough Christopher Columbus (14-1-0), the Catholic Central League champion, at 8:30 Friday night (March 2) at Salem State College.

The Redmen dropped a semifinal decision to Falmouth a year ago at Boston University, riding the razor sharp coattails of senior goalie Ed Walsh throughout the tournament. Tewksbury will be hard pressed to advance to the semis again this season despite the fact that both Scott Nelson and Steve Carney have played well in net.

The Redmen depend on senior co-captain Joe Seluk (18-14-32), co-captain Dana Tower (9-12-21) and junior defenseman Russ Mann (11-16-27) to put the puck in the net.

Tewksbury is a young club just sprinkled with seniors who will be counted upon in this first game. Those seniors include center Tim Kelly, leftwing Wally McGrath and center Dave Crowley.

The young defense corp includes juniors Kevin Ward, Scott Thornton, Craig LeDuc, Darrel Favreau and sophomore Bob Ware.

Also contributing to Tewksbury's second place Small School finish were junior wings Jim Blum, Ken Krugh and Greg Hill. Sophomores cracking the lineup are wings Keith Tower and Joe Mottolo, along with center Mike McLaughlin. Freshman left wing Kyle Favreau has also seen plenty of ice time.

Should the Redmen pull the upset Friday night, they will tangle with the Boston Latin (17-1-0) vs. North Andover (13-3-0) winner next Wednesday night (March 7) at Salem State starting at 6:30.

What to look for in Division II

The tournament favorite has to be Franklin and its 19-1 record. This season several weaker leagues were shifted to Division III, which should cut into the tourney lifespan of many Division II teams.

The teams that could give Franklin a serious run are Triton, coached by former Wilmington standout Dan O'Connell, Columbus (good luck TMHS) and Boston Latin.

The Division II title game will be played Thursday, March 15 starting at 5:15 p.m. at the Boston Garden.

Opening game predictions
The Wildcats will advance, and perhaps surprise some people by challenging for at least a semifinal spot. Should the senior Gunn get hot, this team would be in a position to make a real run. WHS 5 Concord-Carlisle 3.

The Redmen had an up and down season with many young players. The team does not appear in the same class with Columbus. Columbus 6 TMHS 2.

Shawsheen Tech hockey (18-0-1)

The unbeaten Rams are the favorites to cop the crown here behind the scorching offense of Mike Giuggio (26-37-63), captain Chris Jones (31-27-58), Mike

Gearing for All-Star game

Tewksbury High School senior Sandy Hennessy, shown following the flight of a loose ball in action against Chelmsford, will be playing in the conference All-Star game March 9. See story below.

MVC basketball

Wildcats display pride, 64-60

TMHS senior Dave Whitney pumped in 34 points to easily salt away a Merrimack Valley Conference scoring title, but as was the case for most of the year, it wasn't enough, as the Wilmington Wildcats avoided a winless conference season with a 64-60 victory over the Redmen at the WHS gym Friday night.

Mike Buckley clinched the game for the home squad in the final seconds with a pair of free throws. Dennis Kelly hit for 19 points and grabbed 15 rebounds for Wilmington. Sean O'Brien hit for 11 points, while Buckley and Brian Wetzler chipped in with 10 points apiece. Freshman TMHS guard Tim Boudreau was next in line for the Redmen with 10 points.

All-Star games

The fourth annual MVC girls' and boys' All-Star games are set for Friday, March 9 at the Lowell High School Fieldhouse starting at 6 p.m. for the girls and 7:30 for the boys. Should one or more of the MVC teams reach the state tournament finals, the all-star games will be rescheduled for March 11 at Lowell starting at 1 p.m. (girls) and 3 p.m. (boys).

Whitney, who was named to the All-Conference Team, will participate, as will Wilmington senior guard George Hanna.

Riddle sparks Redmen

Senior forward Missy Riddle, recently selected to the MVC Girls' Basketball All-Star team, made the coaches look very good Friday night in the season finale at Wilmington, scoring 20 points and grabbing eight rebounds in helping the Redmen tip the Wildcats, 59-46.

Eileen Griffin scored 12 points and grabbed 14 rebounds for the 8-7 Redmen. Senior Sandy Hennessy chipped in with eight points.

Wilmington junior center Gail Lombard, who will be playing with Tewksbury's Riddle, Sandy Hennessy and Mary Rheault in the March 9 All-Star game, finished with 12 points. Linda Nistico also contributed 12 points to the Wilmington cause.

MVHL All-Star game

Large School breezes

The Merrimack Valley Hockey League's Large School All-Stars cruised past the Small School squad, 7-2 in the annual All-Star game Saturday at the Hallenborg Rink.

Wilmington's Dennis Moran and Tewksbury's Dana Tower scored the Small School goals, with local assists going to Russ

Mann (TMHS) and Kevin Cullivan (WHS).

Moran was named to the MVHL First Team All-Star squad along with TMHS junior defenseman Mann. Redmen senior scoring leader Joe Seluk was selected to the second team along with Wilmington senior defenseman Kevin Cullivan.

Awards dinner Saturday night

Sons of Italy to honor local athletes

Thirty-six high school athletes and a Foxboro football coach will be honored by the Massachusetts Grand Lodge, Order of Sons of Italy during the 23rd annual Grand Lodge Sports Awards dinner at the Sons of Italy Hall, Woburn this Saturday evening, March 3, at 7:30.

Local athletes to be honored will be TMHS track standout Julie Bernardi, WHS quarterback Dean Athanasia and Shawsheen Tech soccer star Peter Gentile. Gentile is a Tewksbury resident.

The Rams will play the first game of the season at 7 p.m. at the home of the Rams.

The Rams will play the first game of the season at 7 p.m. at the home of the Rams.

Shawsheen will put that record on the line Friday night at home when they host the winner of the Arlington-Catholic (15-5)-Manchester (12-5) contest starting at 7 p.m.

The team is sparked by Wilmington's Bob Sgroso, who this season became the first Tech player ever to score 1,000 points in a career. Co-captain Rob MacInnis also is a top notch player.

Anything is possible come tourney time, but look for the Rams to defeat their first opponent and move on, with a good shot at the title game based on their experience. Cardinal Spellman (18-1) is probably the best bet to be one of the teams in that championship game.

If the Rams win Friday night, they move on to play the winner of the St. Clement's (13-4)-Lynn Tech (15-3) game Thursday, March 8 at Andover.

The Division III championship game will be played Saturday, March 10 at Methuen High School beginning at 1 p.m.

TMHS freshmen girls

Streaking Tewksbury completes super season

The Tewksbury High School girls' freshmen basketball team concluded its season last Friday with a win over Methuen. The Redmen girls came back from a 1-2 start to win nine of their last 10 games.

Tewksbury 35 Lawrence Reggies 11

Eleven players contributed to the scoring column, as Tewksbury won easily. Stephanie Vultaggio with eight points and Debbie Byrne with six were the leading scorers. Chris Brady also had a standout game.

Tewksbury 31 Lawrence 29

The Redmen, avenging their first loss of the season, narrowly defeated Lawrence. Another team effort, with nine players scoring, the frosh were led by Stephanie Vultaggio with eight points and Jean Sullivan with six. Stephanie Rhodes, Chris Blake and Renee Lombardi were the leading rebounders. The key to the game was the outstanding defensive play of the team, particularly Lori Zoho and Jody Sutherland.

Tewksbury 38 Billerica 29

Tewksbury defeated a much improved Billerica team. Tricia Censullo had a stellar performance, as she scored nine points and played well defensively. Jodi Sutherland, Chris Blake and Tracy Danner chipped in with six points each.

Lawrence 42 Tewksbury 34

A second half effort by Tewksbury fell short, as the Lancers 25-11 halftime lead was too much to overcome. Jeannie Sullivan with 13 points, Stephanie Vultaggio with eight and Chris Blake with five led the offense.

Tewksbury 43 Billerica 15

Eleven different players contributed to the scoring column as Tewksbury romped over Billerica. Stephanie Vultaggio (eight), Tricia Censullo, Tracy Danner and Jeannie Sullivan all with six points were the high scorers.

Methuen 43 Tewksbury 31

Methuen's gym was very cold and so were the Redmen, as they were unable to stop the Rangers. Jeannie Sullivan (nine), Renee Lombardi (eight), and Stephanie Vultaggio with seven led the scoring.

Tewksbury 37 Dracut 26

An outstanding performance by Jeannie Sullivan (19 points and a solid defensive game) led Tewksbury over previously undefeated Dracut. Stephanie Rhodes, Debbie Byrne, Chris Blake and Lori Zotto all played solid games.

Tewksbury 36 Wilmington 14

Stephanie Vultaggio's eight points and Renee Lombardi's six led the offense. Tricia Censullo, Kelly McNamara, Debbie Byrne, Stephanie Rhodes and Kris Carney all had four points.

Tewksbury 34 Lowell 31

Captain Stephanie Vultaggio

scored 15 points as Tewksbury won its fourth straight. Lori Zotto, Jodi Sutherland, Renee Lombardi and Stephanie Rhodes had fine performances.

Tewksbury 35 Chelmsford 18

Jean Sullivan (10 points) and Debbie Byrne combined for 18 points, as Tewksbury raced by Chelmsford. Defensively, Renee Lombardi, Stephanie Rhodes, and Chris Blake were outstanding on the boards. Jodi Sutherland and Chris Brady also played well.

Haverhill 36 Tewksbury 32

Despite an all star performance by Renee Lombardi, Tewksbury's win streak ended at Haverhill in a very exciting game. Lombardi controlled the boards and had 13 points for the Redmen. Stephanie Vultaggio had a great game as well scoring 12 points.

Tewksbury 35 Andover 29

The Redmen bounced back with a good win over once beaten Andover. Jean Sullivan and Renee Lombardi combined for 19 points. Stephanie Rhodes played well defensively, and her three point play late in the game iced the win for Tewksbury.

The players include: captain Stephanie Vultaggio, Jeannie Sullivan, Tricia Censullo, Chris Brady, Kelly McNamara, Debbie Byrne, Chris Blake, Jodi Sutherland, Janice Troy, Renee Lombardi, Lori Zotto, Stephanie Rhodes, Tracy Danner, Lynne Ploof, and Kristin Carney.

Possible revision for sign by-law

The Wilmington Planning Board is considering a revision of the sign by-law, to be proposed in the annual town meeting. The revision being discussed would be to assist in directing truck drivers to their destinations in Wilmington.

There are cases, the members say, in which trucks are driven into areas where they should not be because the drivers could find no directions. As it is being proposed, the signs would not be larger than four square feet.

This type of sign would not be for other than industrial areas, except that an addition to the by-law could allow signs for directions to houses of worship.

Four articles are being prepared for street layouts.

One would discontinue a portion of Winchell Road, off Grove Avenue. There is a home right on the road, which has been there for years.

Another article being discussed is for the acceptance of Ainsworth Road under the betterment plan.

A third article, possibly would be to improve traffic flow at the corner of Eames Street and Woburn Street.

Also being discussed, as possible articles, for amendments to the zoning bylaw are warehousing, limited manufacturing, front yards, non-conforming uses and site plan reviews.

Land purchase discussion

Stan Whitten, 140 Garfield Ave., Woburn, one of two parties seeking to purchase 37 acres of town land near the Woburn line, off Main Street, told the planning board that he is planning to construct warehouses on the property. The total area of the warehouses, he expects, will be 500,000 to 600,000 square feet, in buildings that would be under 30 feet high.

Whitten has 30 to 40 such properties already, he told the planning board.

The land is zoned industrial. He estimated the value to be in the neighborhood of $15 million.

McCoy on planning board

Michael McCoy is now a member of the Wilmington Planning Board. He has been appointed by Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, and took the oath of office on February 27.

McCoy, who lives on Kenwood Avenue, is a graduate of Wilmington High School (77), Northern Essex College (79), University of Lowell (81) and the Anna Maria College in Paxton, Mass. (82). He holds a master's degree in criminal justice, and a bachelor's degree in law and justice and public administration. He is also the nephew of Rep. Jim Miceli. He owns a building, nearing completion, on Lowell Street, where he plans to open a sandwich shop in April.

Warrant has 19 articles seeking to buy town land

Nineteen articles have been submitted to the town clerk for the purchase of town owned land, in the coming annual town meeting. In three cases articles are duplicates of other articles submitted.

Linda Connelly of Billerica and Nancy Sullivan of Tewksbury each seek to purchase a piece of land adjacent to the Glen Road School, off St. Paul Street. The tract of land is over one acre in area.

Paul Welch of Sherborn Place, Wilmington and Jack Holloway of Billerica seek to purchase the same lot of about 29,500 square feet, off Congress Street.

Kevin McMillan of Parker Street and Stanley Whitten of Woburn each seek to buy an old gravel pit, near the Woburn line, and off old Main Street. There is 37 acres in the tract, and it is mostly old holes, in the rocky hill, from which all gravel was taken about 20 years ago.

Richard C. Gray, probably of Silverhurst Avenue, seeks to buy one-half acre off Lee Street.

Francis Raposa, Tewksbury, has an article to purchase about 12,500 square feet off Birch Street.

William F. Cavanaugh Jr. of Grove Avenue seeks to buy about 12,800 square feet off Kilby Street, near Carmel.

Roy Crane, MacDonald Road, seeks to purchase 20,000 square feet off Pineview Road.

Stanley Lewis, of Medford, seeks to purchase 37 acres of land in the area northerly of Salem Street and westerly of Route 93.

Bruce Steel of Burlington seeks to buy about 22,000 square feet off Congress Street at Winston Avenue.

Charles Duggan of Tewksbury seeks to purchase 5,000 square feet off Jacobs Street.

William Murphy of Crescent Street seeks to buy about 31,000 square feet off Garden Avenue and Gorham.

Richard Stuart of Presidential Drive seeks to purchase about 25,000 square feet at Fay Street, near Carey.

Denise Ganey, 133 Salem St., Wilmington, seeks to buy 13,716 square feet off Gorham Street.

Mary Ann Sullivan of Wilmington wishes to buy 10,000 square feet off Everett Avenue.

Larz Neilson of High street wants to buy about one-half acre near the North Wilmington railroad station.

Funds awarded from Arts Lottery

The Wilmington Council for the Arts has announced that six grants totalling $2,317 will be distributed to local artists and cultural organizations in the community through the Mass. Arts Lottery project. The following applicants: the Commonwealth Woodwind Quintet, poetess Helena Minton, and artists Dora Hirtle, Tina Prentiss and William Kinnear were approved by the local council and have been certified by the Mass. Arts Lottery Council at State House in Boston. Included, also, was approval for the purchase of tents by the Wilmington Council. These tents will be in use on the town common during the annual July 4th Art Exhibition.

In making the announcement, Chairman Adele Passmore said "With the help of Arts Lottery grants The Wilmington Council for the Arts is able to encourage and support worthy arts and humanities projects of many kinds here in Wilmington. These funds can greatly enhance the cultural life of our community."

Current grants awarded statewide have topped $1,000,000 for the first time since the distributions began in July of 1982. The total for January 1984 is $1.5 million due to the enactment of a fiscal 1984 appropriation bill which provides local arts lottery councils with $3,000,000 per year. These funds are a part of the proceeds from the Megabucks lottery game.

The next distribution of funds will be in July 1984 and applications are now available at Wilmington Memorial Library and at Town Hall. The Wilmington Council for the Arts invites all local artists and arts organizations in the community to avail themselves of this unique arts and humanities funding opportunity.

Several scholarships are also available each spring to outstanding young residents of Wilmington who are graduating from either Wilmington High School or Shawsheen Tech and plan to major in the arts or music at the college level in the fall.

Deadline for submission of applications for the next funding cycle will be in mid-April. Applications should be submitted to the Wilmington Council for the Arts, Town Hall, Wilmington MA 01887.

Wilmington police news

The Wilmington Police Department at this time is holding a number of motor vehicle warrants, default warrants which are being processed. They were issued as the result of people failing to pay traffic citation fines.

People who have not paid their fines find that the court begins the process of issuing arrest warrants shortly after a 10 day time limit has expired. The Wilmington Police Department attempts to notify local residents of recent warrants, and to tell those residents how to clear them up.

Failure to clear up a warrant by paying the fine will result in the individual's arrest, which also means an extra expense, in bail, and the inconvenience of spending a day in court.

There were 10 arrests in Wilmington during the past week, seven accidents and 10 disturbances, plus one case of medical assistance. Five persons were taken into protective custody. There was one report of larceny, three of suspicious activity, and three trailbike complaints. There were 18 alarms, four traffic complaints and six cases of vandalism.

Robert J. Wagner of 18 Magnavista Circle and Cynthia M. Cleary of 30 Mohawk Drive, both of Tewksbury were arrested on motor vehicle default warrants last Friday. Robert V. Manfredi of 26 Park Drive, Burlington was also arrested on a motor vehicle warrant, Sunday, on a Wilmington default warrant.

Ralph T. Wilson Jr. of East Orchard Street, Haverhill was arrested by Officer McCue Sunday evening and charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, and failure to keep to the right. Early Monday morning Officer Parsons arrested Peter A. Nelson of 22 Rogers St., Tewksbury. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, operating so as to endanger, and leaving the scene of an accident.

A local woman was one of two persons arrested Monday morning, after an investigation into a recent housebreak on New Hampshire Road. Inspectors Jepson and Celata charged Cheryl Bognore of Shawsheen Avenue with daytime break and entry, larceny and malicious damage. She was arraigned Monday afternoon and her case was continued for two weeks. Also arrested on the same charges was John Rivers of 20 Brentwood Rd., Reading. A warrant has been issued for a third person in the case, Dean Sullivan, also of Reading. He is believed to be in New Jersey.

David P. Komenchuk of Swain Road was arrested Monday afternoon by Officers Jim Cuoco and Arthur Lynch on a warrant charging him with assault and battery. He was taken to Woburn District Court and the case was continued for further hearings.

Michael Shaw of Dracut was arrested by Dracut police on a motor vehicle default warrant, issued by the Wilmington Police. He is to appear in court on Tuesday.

New England's most heavily travelled road

By Lux Overbea
Staff writer of The Christian Science Monitor

One out of every five people commuting to Boston enters the city by way of Route 3, better known as the Southeast Expressway and officially designated part of I-93, in the nation's Interstate Highway System.

The 8.3-mile stretch of eight-lane road between the Route 128 beltway and the Massachusetts Avenue exit in Boston — New England's most heavily traveled stretch of road — has been declared in "severe deterioration" by a special inspection group. And commuters have been disturbed by its monumental traffic jams, which stall as many as 100,000 vehicles at one time.

To correct these problems, the Massachusetts Department of Public Works (DPW) has authorized a $65 million contract to reconstruct the expressway's 15 bridges and to resurface the roadway. Work will begin March 19. The project is to be completed by September 1985. That's the good news.

The bad news is that reconstruction will mean more frequent, intolerable traffic jams for the 165,000 vehicles that travel the expressway each day, more than twice its original 80,000-vehicle capacity.

A number of communities, including Quincy, Dorchester, and Milton, have pressed to have the road widened. So why not delay the repair project until plans to increase expressway capacity can be drafted?

"We can wait no longer to repair the throughway," says Robert T. Tierney, commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, the state agency responsible for rehabilitation of the strip. "The bridges should have been renovated three years ago. Conditions are so bad we can't guarantee that some sections will not crumble if we wait."

Leaders of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC), an advisory body, support the massive road repair — a project that will be 90 percent federally financed — adding that expansion is not feasible now.

When the Southeast Expressway was completed in 1959, it was thought to be the ideal commuters' road into a major city, its modern construction able to move vehicles nonstop in and out of the Hub. The road, now with rusting steel girders and eroding concrete, is in stages of disrepair because of "overuse and spotty upkeep," Commissioner Tierney says.

He opposes expanding expressway capacity because too many residents in the crowded communities of Quincy and Dorchester would have to be moved to make room for added lanes, and it would cost too much money and cause too much public anguish to acquire the needed properties. "And we find no support for another proposal, second decks for some of the bridges," Tierney adds.

A report issued Feb. 14 by the MAPC says the DPW has spent $7 million to maintain concrete bridge decks, $3 million to resurface roads, and $4 million to fix potholes in the last 10 years. A majority of the bridges "cannot be fixed with stopgap measures."

The expressway repairs will include more lighting; roadway construction built to last 20 years without need of repair; and completely rebuilt and redesigned bridges.

State and federal funds are being used to aid local communities cooperating with programs to ease expressway traffic problems during the reconstruction period, Tierney says. But communities are concerned that as commuters seek alternative routes traffic will increase on their streets, which were not designed for such heavy use.

"We're planning for the best, but preparing for the worst," says state Sen. Paul D. Harold, whose district includes Quincy, Braintree, Holliston, and Avon, all tied to the expressway.

He just wants to get the repairs over with. "We have a built-in incentive to get the project completed on time: a $10,000-a-day bonus to the contractor for each day completed ahead of schedule, or a $10,000-a-day penalty for failure to complete the contract on time."

New lighting, roadway, and bridges planned

Jean Christensen of Marshfield works in downtown Boston and commutes the final 8.3 miles of her 31-mile journey on the Southwest Expressway. "Construction will place a terrible burden on people like me. My one-hour drive may stretch into two hours."

Mrs. Christensen has already decided on an alternative route: She drives to Braintree, parks her car in a Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) lot, and catches the rapid-transit line to her office.

Planners suggest these commuting options: Mass transit. The MBTA will provide three additional trains on the Red Line (an extra capacity of 800-1,000 passengers.) It also is prepared to provide express-bus service to the South Shore area. In addition, the MBTA and DPW are providing subsidies to encourage private bus firms to provide express service, too.

Park-and-ride. The DPW plans to add 10 new sites with 1,500 parking spaces to its current 13 park-and-ride lots with 1,600 spaces along the South Shore.

Ride sharing. Caravan for Commuters Inc. is under contract to coordinate means of sharing rides, from carpools to company plans along the South Shore during the next two years. Its telephone hot line is 227-1001.

Commuter transportation. Additional commuter-boat service will be provided, and an extension of commuter rail lines southward is being sought.

Signs are being placed on the expressway to note construction, alternate routes, and park-and-ride lots. And, says Tierney, "We are planning conferences to discuss such ideas as flexible time for office hours and company planned driving pools to and from work for employees."

Special services such as MBTA police and state police will be expanded. Round-the-clock towing services, bicycle storage, and media information will be provided.

For commuters who stick it out on the expressway, the two center lanes will be reversible, going north during the morning rush hours and south during the evening rush period. During nonrush hours three lanes will be open in each direction. This means no breakdown lanes during these hours. Currently the fourth lanes are breakdown lanes during normal hours. Commissioner Tierney says the northbound section of the highway will be completed during 1984, the southbound half will be completed in 1985.

Thoughts that cross my mind

FM TALK: Thoughts that crossed this columnist's mind this week:

The Robb Report, that classy magazine for people with lots of money to spend, heralded the ultimate luxury option to go along with your brand new (or newly restored classic) automobile in its latest issue: hand-crafted Oriental rugs! Exit, Inc., in California, offers the wool rugs, which are handmade in Turkey. The designs are Turkish geometric, with colors that are rich blues, reds and camels. The company claims that the rugs are a good investment at about $440 a piece. At that price I don't think I'd want my friends stepping on them, especially considering the weather here in New England. I'll stick to vinyl mats. Come to think of it, my car's lucky it has a spare tire, never mind Oriental carpeting!

One fellow who can certainly afford those Oriental rugs in his cars is Art Bartlett, who founded the Century 21 real estate chain. Bartlett started his operation with one office and $6,000 in 1971. There are now 7,600 Century 21 offices, with $20 billion in housing sales. Bartlett retired in 1979 after selling out to Trans World Corporation for $90 million. Not a bad profit for a new guy who'd been in the business only eight years.

For those of us who aren't so fortunate as to be able to sit around and watch $90 million grow in a bank, there's some not-so-good news. Consider this: if you earn $27,000 per annum, and this year you receive a 5 percent cost of living increase, which comes to $52 per week, after deductions the net increase on your pay check will total $1.70. You can't even buy a cheap bottle of wine with which to celebrate your raise with that.

Then again, maybe a lot of money hanging around in your wallet is bad. Take those major league ball players who are suspected of using cocaine while on the field during games. A high salary won't prove beneficial for them. Is there nothing sacred anymore? Next to be tarnished will be mom's apple pie (come to think of it, the EDB ban has already put a damper on that) and Chevrolets.

At least there's good and interesting news from the art world. New York City artist Nancy Burson, with help from a computer expert, has developed a computer that can actually draw an image of what a person will look like in, say, twenty-five years. Another dandy feature of Burson's artful computer, which has created with help from MIT, is something called computer composites. The computer scans a series of head shots — photographs of people's faces — and comes up with an average look in one face. Burson used this technique on five of this century's most recognizable dictators and created a face she calls "Big Brother," a composite of all five dictators. She created another composite recently entitled "The Candidate," which is a composite of Reagan's face and Mondale's face. Burson says the computer has a practical use too. It can help locate missing children, and it can show a person what he or she will look like after plastic surgery. And before you guys go through the trouble of growing a beard or a mustache, Burson says you see for yourself beforehand what you'd look like with facial hair. Sounds like art deco has found a new form through which it can express itself.

On the other hand, Harold A. Adler, of California, may not find his invention as useful as Burson's artful computer. Adler has developed an amusement device for dogs and cats. It's a ball that rolls when activated by a radio-transmitting collar worn by a dog or cat. When the animal gets close enough to the ball, the radio activates a tiny motor inside the ball. According to Adler, his invention will free pet owners from having to entertain their pets. O.K., I'll buy that.

So much for radio activated balls. Let's take a peek at how other businesses are effecting our

HEALTH SERVICES

Does a Doctor's Office Visit Cost You More Than $3.00?

Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc., has contracted with Bay State Health Care, a health maintenance organization (HMO), which involves local physicians and dentists in preventive care.

Most of the Choate-Symmes Active Staff are affiliated with this independent practice association, which provides the best features of traditional medical care while emphasizing preventive medicine through utilization of health resources within the community.

Benefits include:

- care by one's own physician (a member of Bay State)
- referrals to other Bay State physicians
- complete care at Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc., and other hospitals
- physician-ordered outpatient x-rays and tests
- complete emergency care worldwide
- complete physical, eye and ear exams
- visits to doctor's office (after initial $3 co-payment)
- preventive dental care for dependents 3 to 12 (limited for adults)
- dependents' medical care from birth to age 19 (26 if student)

MUSEUM FESTIVITIES

A special blessing will be bestowed on Boston's Museum of Science next weekend (March 24) by three elaborately costumed and bejeweled Thai classical dancers.

The barefooted dancers in glittering costumes and towering headdress will bless not only Ban Chiang — an exhibition on prehistoric Thailand that opens March 2 at the Museum — but also a weekend of Thai festivities March 2 through 4 to introduce Boston's resident Thai community and celebrate the 150 years of friendship between the United States and Thailand.

The dancers will perform their special blessing dance (an ancient Thai custom) as well as other Thai dances throughout the weekend starting Friday night. The dancers' schedule is: Friday at 7 and 8:30 p.m.; Saturday 11:30 a.m., 1:30 and 3 p.m.; Sunday 12 noon and 2 p.m.

Other festivities will include a demonstration of Thai cooking and flower arranging on Saturday and a pottery-making demonstration on Sunday. Every day there will be a chance to see Thai dancing but also for visitors to join in a popular Thai folk dance, and to have their names written to ornate Thai characters on a special edition souvenir card.

Members of the Thai community in and around Boston have contributed pottery, sculpture, silks, and other treasures from their homeland to a market-place exhibit that remains through May 28. Some of the objects are from the tourist organization of Thailand. Thai volunteers in regional dress will help welcome Museum visitors, demonstrate Thai writing, and expalin ancient and modern Thai displays.

A preview of the weekend festivities will be held Thursday evening, March 1 for Members. That program also features a fashion show by Filene's of resortwear for warm climates (such as Thailand).

GLADIOLUS

Home gardeners interested in gladioli will want to attend the annual bulb auction of the New England Gladiolus Society to be held Sunday, March 5, from 2-5 P.M. This is at the Schoolhouse Building of the Middlesex County Extension Service, 105 Everett Street, Concord, Ma.

Gladioli or "glads", as they are often called, provide some of the most showy accent flowers and cut blooms in any garden. Ease of culture, freedom from pests, and a complete range of color throughout the rainbow spectrum including greens and even dark blues bordering on black make them a versatile flower for the garden and summer arrangements.

The auction will include bulbs of various sizes and many varieties of large standard as well as miniature gladioli. There will also be gift certificates and catalogues available. Cash or personal checks are acceptable from successful bidders but no credit cards.

For your garden this spring — try some gladioli! Plan to visit this New England growers auction for bulbs and cultural details.

Education and local home buying experts. Topics to be discussed include: the current housing market, property inspections, condominiums, financing, legal fees, and much more.

Space is limited, so please register early. A registration fee of $10.00 is required to cover costs of facilities and materials. For more information call 396-5800 Extension 226 weekdays or 396-3264 evenings and weekends.

THE PRIVATE EYE

David Handler

In 'Night Court', everything's orderly

By David Handler

NBC's "Night Court" is a pleasantly daffy little sitcom from Reinhold Weege, one of the talents behind "Barney Miller." He has assembled the show around the gifts of Harry Anderson, the boyish, whimsical magician-comic who has frequently appeared on "Cheers" as Harry the con man.

Anderson plays Harry Stone, a young New York City lawyer who happened to be home. See, it was the mayor's last day in office and there were still judge-ships to be handed out.

Admittedly, Harry's name was at the very bottom of the list, but nobody else was home to answer the call to service. That's how he got appointed.

He doesn't fit the mold for judges. He wears sweatshirts, jeans and sneakers. His manner is as informal and playful as his dress. He is a jokester and an amateur magician. He wears headphones.

"I own every Mel Tormé record ever made," he reveals. "I'm going to marry the girl who's impressed by that."

Most of the show's action takes place in Harry's courtroom, which serves as an arena for oddball "Barney Miller"-style legal and domestic squabbles. As a bonus there's a gallery of barflies and hookers who've come in out of the cold. They are quick and loud with their comments.

They mustn't get too unruly, though, or they'll arouse Bull (Richard Moll) the 6-foot, 8-inch bailiff with a shaved head and permanently crazed expression. Bull is into self-improvement. Every month he chooses a new word at random from the dictionary and uses it as often as he can. Right now he's on "mercurial."

Harry's late for his first session. "I don't know what's holding the judge up," apologizes Lana (Karen Austin), his cute, plucky clerk, who actually mistook him for a delivery boy when he first arrived in his chambers.

"A diaper change, perhaps," sneers Daniel (John Larroquette), the cold, stiff assistant district attorney.

Daniel is not impressed by Harry — especially Harry's antics. Like the way Harry jumps back up after everyone has waited for him to sit down. "Got ya!" Harry cries out, delighted. Daniel doesn't like Harry's card tricks.

He especially doesn't like Harry's bright idea for handling a husband-wife squabble in which the wife fired a shot at her spouse. Harry sends them out for coffee with their lawyers. "Sit down, relax, try to work out this thing," suggests Harry.

"Your honor," protests Daniel. "This is highly irregular." "Thanks," beams Harry. "What do murderers get?" the assistant D.A. demands. "Brunch?"

Yes, Harry's unorthodox. He even produces the "coin of justice" and proceeds to flip it. "Heads I fine you. Tails you go to jail." Of course, it's all a ruse to get a dialogue going between the husband and wife. "I'm just talking," Harry explains. "Talking to people. Are there any English-speaking people out there tonight?"

His methods work. As he heads back to his chambers to do some "judge stuff," doubting Lana stops him. "It would be an honor to call you Harry," she declares. "Then it's fortunate that I have that name," he fires back.

There's a spirit of fun to "Night Court." Anderson is warm and appealing, and the subsidiaries are strong. Paula Kelly plays Elizabeth, a public defender, and good old Selma Diamond is on hand as a guard.

"Night Court" could really grow into something with creative nurturing and support from NBC.

People have to watch it, too. That's where you come in. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

A look back and a look ahead

ever since the play's debut there in January.

The Real Thing

This is the story of a playwright, Henry, who leaves his first wife, Charlotte, for an actress, Annie, who is married to the leading man in Henry's play. In addition to all of that is Mr. Stoppard's argument for the sanctity of writing.

Annie is caught up in a crusade of a soldier who is arrested for firebombing a national monument in protest of the nuclear arms buildup. The arsonist, Brodie, wants to promote his cause by writing a play preaching the virtues of socialism.

The play is poorly written, and artistically horrendous, so Annie comes to Henry asking him to rewrite it.

Despite a feeling that plays should not be written as propaganda pieces by uneducated people with a cause, Henry finally gives in — but only to save what he thinks is a faltering marriage.

economy. The National Association of Business Economists had some good news this week. They predict that the economy will grow 4.2 percent this year, and even though it's a 2 percent drop from last year's growth rate, the economists say it is still a healthy sign. They also indicated that consumer prices will rise only 5 percent, and that the unemployment rate will dip below 8 percent by the end of this year. As for the Northeastern part of the country, 43 percent of those economists predict lower unemployment, compared with 27 percent of them who say unemployment in this part of the nation will rise.

Not all economists had cheery news though. Courtenay Slater, simply evolve from the script, not smack the audience in the face. He can compromise those feelings, though, because of an even stronger one, that to make a relationship work, one must work extremely hard at it — which entails surrendering peacefully at times.

"The Real Thing" features outstanding acting performances by both of the leading characters, Jeremy Irons (Henry) and Glenn Close (Annie). Both appeared in Boston when the play opened there in early December.

This is both a humorous and thought-provoking play that could be one of Broadway's best this season. It is now playing at the Plymouth Theatre in New York.

Brighton Beach Memoirs

A masterful performance by Matthew ("War Games" Brotherider, an engrossing script by the master of modern comedy, Neil Simon, and a warming message about the American family are what make "Brighton Beach Memoirs" a perfectly enjoyable show.

Broderick plays Eugene, an aspiring writer and the youngest son of two Russian immigrants. He is also the narrator of his family's story inasmuch as he is a spectator in this lone incident of the family's near-disintegration.

Eugene usually isn't "just" a spectator in family catastrophes. As he says early in Act I, "Now I'm being blamed for the start of World War II."

He is a young adolescent who is just starting to learn what it means to grow up. The times are tough — the Depression is over, but Hitler's army is starting to wreak havoc in Europe — and Eugene, who is used to being sheltered from the problems of the world, is slowly being exposed to them.

Eugene's immediate family (his brother, Stan, and mother and father, Kate and Jack) have taken in Kate's sister, Blanche, and her two daughters, the lovely Nora and the anemic Laurie. The tensions caused by too many people and not enough money in a house too small is the focus of the play. The way they handle them is the viewer's reward.

In addition to Broderick's outstanding performance (his character seems to be a cross between Jerry Lewis and Beaver Cleaver), Marilyn Chris, as Kate, is also a strong contributor to this play's success.

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" is scheduled to come to Boston before the end of the season, and when it does, it should be an immediate hit.

mill towns. That's right. There's a revival going on in cities like Fall River, where the success of factory outlets is creating block-busting business and many new jobs. In fact, a phenomenon is taking place in these mill towns. According to USA Today, first came the factory outlets, then factory outlet malls and now there are whole factory outlet towns! The secret, noted the paper, is strong customer loyalty and terrific word-of-mouth advertising.

"Project Adventure" offers opportunity for local youths

The YMCA and the Woburn Council of Social Concern's Youth Services Program are collaborating on a program to service area youth. The new program, called "Project Adventure," will begin in March and will run for 14 weeks. The program will provide young people with opportunity to assume responsibility, to care about others, to listen more carefully, and to lead.

Project Adventure's curriculum is composed of a series of increasingly challenging projects and activities in which confidence, self-esteem, group trust, cooperation and responsibility are built as the young person meets each successive challenge. These activities include non-competitive new games, group initiatives and trust problems, ropes course obstacles (a series of cables, ropes and other contrived activities high above the ground) and other challenging activities such as canoeing, biking, hiking, rock climbing and back packing.

While these activities define the content of the program, it is the philosophical structure of Project Adventure that truly explains its fantastic success for the past twelve years. There have emerged four concepts which have been identified as crucial to defining the Project Adventure approach to teaching and learning. They are as follows:

1. Adventure — Not surprisingly, the first of these concepts is that real learning is more likely to take place in a context of Adventure. Adventure is not fear, or anxiety, or stress. It has much more to do with anticipation and with vitality and perhaps even with a keenness for experiencing life.

Adventure is important because it provides the emotional setting within which it becomes possible for the students to feel and know that they have been involved in something that personally mattered.

In an adventure, young people can't assume that success is guaranteed. Instead they perceive that they are exploring the unknown with the understanding that failure is clearly possible. The responsibility is no longer only in the hands of an adult. No longer is the young person able to live his life objectively, vicariously or dispassionately.

2. Cooperation — Cooperation emerges as a group of young people work toward a common goal which they can't accomplish individually. It emerges, as a group of people begin to recognize, value, and make use of the differing talents included among the members of the group. It occurs when the group accepts and supports the efforts of individuals within it.

One of Project Adventure's approaches is to organize a group around a series of problems which ten or twelve students can work on. Ideally, these problems have within them the potential for adventure and challenge (in the initial stages simply having to work with another person can be adventurous).

3. Direct Experience — The third concept characterizing Project Adventure's approach is that young people need to perceive the connection between direct experiences in the real world and the concepts they deal with at home, in school, and among their peers.

Direct experience may stimulate curiosity and motivation. Certainly, it's harder to be very involved in a discussion of sunlight if one has only experienced darkness.

4. Integration — The fourth concept central to the Project is that education should give young people an opportunity to bring together and to integrate the physical, emotional, social, intellectual, and even the aesthetic aspects of their personality. If the intellectual aspect of the personality is emphasized to the neglect of the others, then that person will suffer not only emotionally and socially, but also intellectually. Thus, the curriculum carefully designs activities that provide a holistic approach to learning life skills.

Adventure programming offers a remarkably effective approach for enticing reluctant and uncommitted youth to participate in activities and to challenge them to grow beyond their limitations. The program assists youth in developing the necessary insight and responsibility to deal with life issues as developing adults. This activity-oriented model is fundamentally a highly structured peer counseling program. It provides adolescents a forum to learn about themselves and their motivations in order to help them develop appropriate and realistic patterns of behavior.

The program has two components. There are two weekly activities and one discussion group which will deal with such issues as self-image, drug education, first aid, handling stress-anger, etc. The program meets on Mondays and Saturdays. There are also three overnights and one four-day trip. There is also a bi-monthly parents' meeting to discuss adolescent issues.

The program is being offered free of charge to adolescents 12- to 17 years of age. For more information, please call Tom or Liz at the YMCA, 935-3270 or Robin at WCSC, 935-6495.

We wouldn't be the world leader in plastic dinnerware and food packaging if we didn't run some pretty complicated machinery. You think we need the best electricians in the business to keep it all running smoothly? You bet we do.

If you're a top-flight electrician looking for a new challenge, think Sweetheart Plastics. We need two electricians, one for the day shift and one for the second shift.

Our second shift position requires an all around expert with 3-5 years' experience who can wire and install a complete machine, is able to troubleshoot high speed production equipment and adjust and re-air motors, controls and transformers. DC drive experience is required.

Our generous compensation package includes good wages, health and life insurance, company paid pension plan, paid holidays and sick time, tuition reimbursement and all the other benefits of a Fortune 500 company. ### Ballet Fantastique

The Boston Ballet will open its spring season with "Coppelia" from March 22 to April 1 at the Colonial Theatre, 106 Boylston St., Boston. With music by Leo Delibes and choreography after Petipa-Ivanov, "Coppelia" is the first ballet written about a doll coming to life.

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

Last performed by the Boston Ballet in 1978, "Coppelia" centers around Dr. Coppélius, an eccentric toymaker who has constructed a doll (Coppelia) so lifelike that everyone believes it to be a beautiful girl. A village, Franz, flirts with Coppelia, thereby angering his fiancée, Swanilda. Curiosity ultimately leads Swanilda to enter secretly into Dr. Coppélius' workshop, where she discovers the doll, and mischievously takes her place to fool Dr. Coppélius.

For the grand finale of the Boston Ballet's 20th Anniversary Season, the Company will perform the world premiere of Choo San Goh's

"The Compleat Beatles" a fan's delight

By DAN KENNEDY

The black-and-white television beamed Ed Sullivan's benign countenance, as it did every Sunday night, into the cramped living room. This night was different, though. Four young men from Liverpool, England — members of a band called the Beatles — played two songs, "She Loves You" and "I Want to Hold Your Hand."

And while the music didn't mean too much to me — after all, it was 1964 and I was 7 years old — the response was a source of wonderment. Hundreds of girls screamed, cried and moaned, so obsessively and loudly that the music could barely be heard. The cameramen focused more on the audience than they did on the Beatles. After all, which made better TV? Four well-dressed young men with slightly longish hair or hordes of hysterical adolescents?

The Beatles, of course, came to be far more important than their screaming fans. They led a musical revolution as their leaders, John Lennon and Paul McCartney, established themselves as the greatest and most daring songwriters of their day. Some thought they led a social revolution as well, but that seems silly in retrospect.

It's been 20 years since John, Paul, George and Ringo took the United States by storm. We've been deluged by reminders of that anniversary. Most of it has been pure garbage — reminiscences by people we couldn't care less about in publication ranging from Life magazine to Rolling Stone.

There is one wonderful exception, however — "The Compleat Beatles," a two-hour movie, originally made for television, now being shown at the Orson Welles Cinema in Cambridge (on Massachusetts Avenue, between Harvard and Central squares).

Directed by Patrick Montgomery and narrated by Malcolm McDowell, "The Compleat Beatles" consists of a treasure chest of rare interviews with the band's contemporaries (although not with the Beatles themselves), concert footage and press conferences.

Nearly half the movie documents the Beatles' rise in England before they came to America — the early days of the Quarrymen and the Silver Beetles, the long nights in clubs in Liverpool and Hamburg, Germany, and the departure of band members who were not up to John, Paul and George's musical standards: bassist Stuart Sutcliffe, who left on his own, after which McCartney switched from guitar to bass, and drummer Pete Best, who was replaced by Ringo Starr.

If "The Compleat Beatles" has a weakness, it is that it is less "Romeo and Juliet", with new sets by Alain Vaes at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts from May 17 - 27. For ticket information, call 542-3600.

"Careers in Computer Software", Tuesday, April 3 and "Health and Fitness Center", Tuesday, April 10th.

All programs will be held at the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, 356 Boylston St., Boston and are open to the public. Registration fee is $10 per program. For more information, call 536-5651.

COMING ATTRACTIONS is a little short this week on big events, so write, care of this local newspaper and give us the opportunity to broadcast your grand happening to all. Very little ever passes by without our interest.

DOES YOUR CHILD'S REPORT CARD REFLECT HIS POTENTIAL?

Unsatisfactory grades don't always mean lack of ability. Often students have educational gaps that hinder progress in one or more subjects — they don't get the special attention they need in school at a critical point in one or more subjects, or they simply lack good study skills. We're here to give them the personal attention, educational tools, and confidence they need to maximize their own potential. Serving local students for six years.
